

Cozen O'Connor Named One of the "6 Go-To Firms For The Airline Industry" in Law360

Friday, February 5, 2016

Cozen O'Connor's Aviation Regulatory team has deep industry-specific knowledge of aviation laws and norms, and provides regulatory, litigation, and business counsel to clients operating in every area of the aviation and aerospace fields. All of the largest global airlines have some presence in the United States, subjecting them to a range of legal, regulatory and business challenges that require law firm experience. While that work is often spread around, a number of firms have been chosen by the industry as go-to firms for major legal matters.

"[Our airline attorneys are] very active in terms of regulatory issues. That would include advising clients, of course, but also filing comments, participating in rule-makings and dealing with some of the cutting-edge issues [like] drones," Jeff Lawrence, chair of Cozen O'Connor's Transportation & Trade Group, told Law360.
