Richard Maleski, Susie Lloyd, and Ronald Menold, Director, COSECURE, were quoted in the article, "Cozen O'Connor Encourages Smart Cyber Subrogation Claims," published by Law360. "There are many targets an insurer can point fingers at and collect reimbursement from, including an insured's contracted IT vendors, software companies, background check companies, and even their retailers and customers," Maleski and Lloyd said. "We've had cases where the IT department was basically afraid they were going to get fired. They think they could lose a job if they cooperate too much," said Ronald Menold.
