

High Court Creates New, Unified Ethics Advisory System for Pa. Judges

Tuesday, January 18, 2022

Thomas Wilkinson was quoted in an article published by The Legal Intelligencer discussing how the Pennsylvania Supreme Court laid out guidelines for a new Judicial Ethics Advisory Board, which is set to take effect in July. "It's clear that the Supreme Court is assigning high importance to judges upholding the standards set forth in the code of judicial conduct," said Thomas. He said the rule creates "a very valuable resource to our judges."
