The Trump Campaign has filed a lawsuit against Bucks County over alleged long lines and cut-offs that they claim prevented some voters from requesting and casting their mail ballots in person. Meanwhile, right-wing activists in suburban Philadelphia — including Bucks, Chester, and Delaware Counties — have reportedly challenged hundreds of voters' eligibility based on change-of-address data, though experts say the claims are legally baseless. The final day of mail-in ballot voting on demand in Pennsylvania was Tuesday. Both Vice President Harris and former President Donald Trump have visited the greater Philadelphia area several times in recent months, underscoring the region's importance to the outcome of the upcoming election.

DA Krasner Sues Musk Over $1M "Illegal Lottery" for PA Voters

Philadelphia District Attorney Larry Krasner filed a lawsuit to halt Elon Musk's $1 million daily voter giveaway in Pennsylvania, arguing it constitutes an illegal lottery and breaches consumer protection laws. The U.S. Department of Justice has also issued warnings about potential violations of federal voter inducement laws.

Obama, Springsteen Rally Support for Harris in Philadelphia

Former President Barack Obama and Bruce Springsteen headlined a rally in Philadelphia for Vice President Kamala Harris, where they urged supporters to mobilize for the election and emphasized the importance of voting in Pennsylvania.
