

How To Protect Trade Secrets During The Pandemic

Friday, May 1, 2020

James Gale was quoted in Law360 discussing the risks of protecting trade secrets now that employees are working from home during the COVID-19 pandemic. Not only have many workers taken secrets home, but the sudden move from secure offices to kitchen tables has put company secrets at heightened risk of theft by cyberattacks, Jim told Law360. "When you're home, you're on your own Wi-Fi, and your own Wi-Fi can be hacked a whole lot more easily than a firm or company Wi-Fi," he said.

To read more of this article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Trade Secrets, Restrictive Covenants, and Computer Abuse