

As Tech Market Heats Up, More Firms Are Ready For Denver

Monday, June 12, 2023

Curtis Vock was quoted in Law360 discussing the growth of tech and life sciences in Denver and Boulder, Colorado. Curtis said, "the area's cluster of universities and federal research institutions has fueled spinoff companies and ensured a highly skilled workforce for companies across the Front Range." "All of that is generating a lot of startups, a lot of money, and in terms of patents filed, it's going up and up," he said.

To read more of this article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Education
- Health Care & Life Sciences
- Intellectual Property
- Patents

Industry Sectors

- Education