Who's Who Legal: Transport identifies the leading practitioners in four areas of focus: aviation finance, aviation contentious, aviation regulatory, and shipping and maritime law. Heffernan and Foglia were selected to the aviation regulatory chapter, while Lawrence and Fink were selected to the shipping chapter.

Lawyers selected to the aviation regulatory sector have a high level of experience in matters including airport charges, alliances and competition law, CAA regulation of airlines, and airport issues such as ground handling and slot allocation and certification, private aviation, aircraft registration, taxes and fees, airport slots, rates and charges, consumer enforcement, safety and security, and compliance with ICAO standards.

Those selected to the shipping or maritime law sectors are recognized as the leading practitioners handling matters that only occur at sea or involve the maritime industry or those using its services.
