

RFK Jr. May Face Legal Trouble After Listing Westchester Home as Residence Without Actually Living There: Experts

Monday, May 20, 2024

Jerry Goldfeder was quoted in a New York Post article discussing Robert F. Kennedy Jr.'s claim to residency in New York despite not owning the property and rarely visiting the address. "Voting in someone else's home doesn't make the address you put down legitimate," said Jerry. "It sounds pretty questionable that it's a bona fide residence," he added. "I imagine his New York petitions will be challenged in due course."
