Experts in helping clients navigate the complex legislative and regulatory environment at both the federal and state level, Mark, Howard, and Jim will be walking through the current marijuana policy landscape – beginning with the implications of U.S. Attorney General Jeff Sessions' rescission earlier this year of Obama-era policy permitting states to establish lawful marijuana programs. On this call, we'll be analyzing the Trump Administration's impact on the future of this growing industry, examining the shifting state landscape – with a spotlight on Pennsylvania's first-in-the-nation medical marijuana research program – and breaking down what we can expect going forward. This call will be moderated by Cozen O'Connor's Blake Rutherford. Please email PublicStrategies@cozen.com to submit live questions during the call.
