

What do Biden's new COVID-19 requirements mean for North Texas businesses? Here's what we know

Friday, September 10, 2021

James Sullivan spoke with The Dallas Morning News to discuss if President Biden's new COVID-19 vaccine requirements are legal for private businesses. Republican elected officials, including Texas Gov. Greg Abbott, have already expressed outrage at Biden's order and signaled they intend to challenge it. Once issued by OSHA, the emergency rules will likely remain in place unless blocked by a court. Jim said the proposed emergency rules are "unprecedented" in OSHA's 50-year history. "It's going to be immediately challenged in court because OSHA has to prove that there is a grave danger to justify not going through the regular rulemaking process," he said.

To read more of this article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Labor & Employment