There are new and renewed risks looming in every business:

- Thieves convincing your employees to unknowingly release funds or sensitive information
- Proposed changes to the regulations to the Fair Labor Standards Act which significantly alters the salary requirement for exempt employees
- The use of new technology – Drones

During this seminar you will learn about these new and evolving risks and evolving products in the marketplace. In addition, you will walk away understanding the basics you should consider when integrating drones into your business.

David Heffernan of the Aviation Regulatory Group will be presenting on the session "New use of new technology – Drones."
