

Colorado Ruling Accelerates Debate On Adjuster Liability

Tuesday, March 22, 2022

John R. Ewell was quoted in the article “Colorado Ruling Accelerates Debate on Adjuster Liability” by Law360. The article focuses on a Colorado Supreme Court ruling that put the brakes on a policyholder’s attempt to find an Allstate claims adjuster liable for violating the state’s bad faith law. Experts took a closer look at laws in other states that could pave the way for similar actions.

John Ewell and Joanna Roberto of Gerber Ciano Kelly Brady LLP told Law360 in a joint statement that the Colorado Supreme Court’s ruling “reflects reality and memorializes the sound intent of the state’s statute.”

To read the full article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Bad Faith
- Insurance Coverage